New York, NY Colliers International has continued its expansion with the addition of Bruce Beegel as a Managing Director in the tenant representation division.

A former Senior Associate with CB Richard Ellis, Beegel has arranged more than 500,000 square feet of real estate transactions throughout his career. Primarily a tenant representative, Beegel specializes in forging new relationships with clients, such as Guetis, Adams & Co., SJI Associates, American Media Inc., Charles Nolan Design, Elie Tahari, Depfa Bank and Ryan Beck, among others.

His career highlights include arranging leases for The Princeton Review, Horizon Asset Management, WB Engineers, Fuel Outdoor, Ryan Beck and Rosenfarb Winters, among others, as well as coordinating a $40 million refinancing for Elie Tahari.

“Bruce Beegel is another rising real estate executive who will bolster our expanding brokerage division,” said Joseph Caridi, COO of Colliers International Tri-State. “We continue to recruit top talent at all levels, with plans to hire additional brokers over the coming months.”

Prior to his position with CBRE, Beegel started his real estate career with Cushman & Wakefield. A former Division I and professional tennis player, Beegel received a Bachelor of Science in Business and Communications from Jacksonville University.
